PROGRAM

Cambridge University Study Program
 Shannon Roberts

Last summer Shannon had the opportunity to attend a three-week study program sponsored by Cambridge University in England. Seven hundred students from the United States went on the trip, and the group had one counselor for every seven students. The students were required to take three classes per day. British Cultural History was a required course, plus two elective classes. Shannon chose as her electives War & Chivalry (the study of Knighthood) and British/American Intelligence (the study of espionage, spies and code breaking).

The students took day trips during their stay in England and some of the sights they enjoyed were London, Warwick Castle, the British Museum, Ely Cathedral, Harrod's, Stonehenge and the Tower of London. She also attended performances of Richard III, The Lion King and Brand. Shannon passed around pictures for us to see from her stay in England.
