DISASTER RELIEF

Rotarians watched a film on Disaster Relief.

With its network of more than 32,000 clubs worldwide, Rotary is uniquely effective in helping communities recover after a disaster. Because all Rotarians are part of a community, members can quickly identify project opportunities when a local disaster occurs.

When disaster strikes, an immediate emergency response is necessary, but individuals, clubs, and districts should also consider how they can provide long-term assistance.

After Hurricane Katrina, Rotarians coordinated the distribution of Shelter Boxes in Biloxi, Mississippi, USA.
